

‘Gendering Histories of the Second World War’

Brian Dempsey (University of Dundee)

‘Love letters from 5190687 to 1533865 - the chance discovery of glimpses into gay life and identify in letters to a WW2 Aberdour anti-aircraft battery’

Lynn Abrams (University of Glasgow)

‘Here I am, frigging about in this "theatre of operations".’ Exploring the masculine body and psyche in a soldier’s letters from World War Two.’

Alexandra Natoli (University of Virginia)

‘Ecrire, la merde ne sent pas: Exploring gender, scent, and sentiment in French visions of deportation’

Karen Adler (University of Nottingham)

‘Gendered encounters and the aftermath of war: French-occupied Germany after 1945’

Please register through the Eventbrite link below:

<http://www.eventbrite.co.uk/e/gendering-histories-of-the-second-world-war-tickets-16051030063>

Thursday 26 March 2015, 1pm-6pm
in room 208, 2 University Gardens

All Welcome

Sponsored by the Scottish Centre for War Studies, Centre for Gender History and the Global Security Network. For further information please contact Professor Peter Jackson peter.jackson@glasgow.ac.uk

Source image: <https://www.flickr.com/photos/42656988@N02/14957392299>